The Ohio Division of Emergency Medical Services position on Ohio Employers offering First Aid, Cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), and Automated External Defibrillator (AED), and emergency preparedness training to employees

The Division of EMS supports Ohio employers offering first aid, CPR, AED, and emergency preparedness training to employees. As multiple studies have demonstrated, the initiation of patient care by layperson bystanders during events involving cardiopulmonary arrests, injuries sustained in accidents, or disasters contributes to the reduction in mortality and morbidity.

The actions of a trained layperson may significantly contribute to the preservation of life and the maintenance of public safety.

Any Emergency Medical Responder (EMR), Emergency Medical Technician (EMT), Advanced Emergency Medical Technician (AEMT), or Paramedic (P) training course taken with the desire to receive Ohio State EMS Certification, at one of the levels listed in this paragraph, must be conducted through an Ohio EMS Board Accredited Training Institution, which is accredited at the specific level of certification desired.
